remember forever?

Dan Stevens: Oh, my goodness. I mean, probably the birth of my first child. The birth of all my children, I don't know. I don't know if I had to choose one, that's very, that's very difficult. But yeah, I'm sure it would be to involve my children in some form.

EDGE: Are there any projects that you want to promote other than this one?

Dan Stevens: Well, yeah, I mean I was lucky enough to make a movie in Germany over the summer, which is coming out later this year, "I'm Your Man," which is also dealing with humanity and technology. I play an Android robot boyfriend in that. And so yeah, a lot of, a lot of checks dealing with, with technology and humanity this year.

"Sales" is available to watch on Amazon Prime.

If you've been thinking about making some technology-driven home improvements, you're not alone. A report last fall by Statista revealed that a third of U.S. households have smart home devices, and that the number is expected to increase to 57% by 2025. But not all smart home products are created equal. Vivint's smart home and security products are seamlessly integrated into an easy-to-use app, making it one of the best-selling brands on the market.

Research reveals that safety, security, and convenience are all important factors for those considering a smart home system. But how do you choose the right one? Vivint is one of the most-recognized
